JOHNNY WONDER

Q. "HOW DO CHAMELEONS CHANGE COLOR?"

A. The chameleon is famous for changing color. Some can change from green to brown, or to red or yellow. This little lizard can change colors because of color cells it has in its skin. The color is changed because these cells change size and shape. A chameleon does not change color just to match its background.

(Chameleons are not always the same color as the stuff they're sitting on.) The color changes are controlled by the lizard's nervous system. Its color changes when it is angry or frightened. Other causes are changes in light and temperature.

You can win a World Almanac if your question is selected. Send your question and age to JOHNNY WONDER, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 108, (DA), Santa Cruz, CA 95061.
